Construction of CC Dam at Asim Agal, Rongjeng Block, East Garo Hills

With this project taken up at Asim Agal VEC under Rongjeng Development Block, more than 308 bighas (approximately 40 hectares) of land was brought under irrigation, which was earlier left barren due to scarcity of water. The adjoining 3 VECs namely the Nongbak Daram, Nongbak Rengkil, Nongbak Agalgre VEC have also benefited from this project which commenced on 5.2.09 and completed on 16.09.09. The cost of the Project was Rs. 3,77,360/- with a break-up of Rs. 2,25,700 as wage component and Rs. 1,51,660 as material component. The mandays generated from this Project was 3224. The implementation of this Project has improved the economic condition of the villagers by way of increasing the area of cultivation and increase in productivity of food grains. The beneficiaries are grateful with the introduction of NREGS to the extent that they ask for more.

Motorable Road at Laitsohpliah, East Khasi Hills.

The Project was sanctioned at a cost of Rs. 4, 93, 000/- and was implemented by Laitsohpliah VEC through NREGS 2007-2008 and 2008-2009. Work commenced on 14th January 2008 and was completed in May 21, 2009 with the active participation of all the registered households. The motorable road serves as a good means of communication for transportation of agriculture and horticulture products. Before the road was constructed, people had to walk for over an hour from their respective village to the main road, carrying their products manually and it took more time for them to deliver their products to the market. However the construction of the Motorable Road has come as a blessing to the whole village, especially the farmers and also for the sick and infirmed.

Construction of dug out pond under Thangbuli, Amlarem C&RD Block Jaintia Hills.

The construction of a dug out pond under Thangbuli village under Amlarem C&RD Block under NREGS measuring 3810.87 cumts. was earmarked for Rs. 5.71 lakhs during 2008-09. As per the guidelines NREGA out of the total amount of Rs. 5.71 lakhs allotted for the project, 60% (amounting to Rs. 3.43 lakhs) constituted wage components and Rs. 2.28 lakhs material components.

The Village Dorbar Of Thangbuli village had constructed two Community Ponds for pisciculture and fish rearing way back in 1960s-1970s with a view to generate income for sustaining the school run by the village to provide education to the children. These two ponds had generated a lot of income to sustain the Upper Primary School till the school got recognition by the Government as a Deficit Upper Primary School. Subsequently the village community then set up another school, viz: the Amwi Secondary School in 1983 with the same source of income from the two ponds. However, due to heavy monsoon rain, one of these ponds got filled up with silt deposit which made the pond unsuitable for fish rearing and required complete de-siltation and reconstruction. In the year 2002, the Village Dorbar passed a resolution to renovate the pond, however due to the size of the pond and huge deposits of silt the same could not be achieved. A boon to the village came with the introduction of the NREGS and de-silting of this pond was selected by the VEC as the top most priority project.

The project has brought back the community property to its past productivity. There is a sense of satisfaction especially among the elders to see this almost lost asset of the community being renovated and revived to its full potential.

The pond after full capacity of fish rearing would be able to produce 10,000 kg of fish per cycle. The village community looks forward to this, as this would help the village in its service to the betterment of the society. Convergence with Fishery Department is under process for supply of seedling free of cost, which will contribute more economics income to the village.

This project has provided 4900 man days of unskilled labour which include 3131 man days for woman and it has helped a lot of villagers in their time of employment crisis. Apart from the unskilled labour this project has also provided 300 skilled and unskilled labor.

Afforestation and Tree Plantation at Umkoi, Jaintia Hills

Afforestation and Tree Plantation at Umkoi VEC was taken up by the VEC at an area covering 12.77 hect. Plantation of Arecanut at an estimated amount of Rs. 1.75 lakhs i.e wages component of Rs. 1.05 lakhs for 1500 Mandays and materials component for fencing including barbed wire for Rs. 0.70 lakhs.

This area was a traditional forest kept under the custody of the Village Council since time immemorial. The village got this area in its custody after the settlement arrived with the HYNRIAM since this area falls settlement arrived with the HYNRIAM since this area falls under the Khyrim Syiemship.

In the past, the village council had taken up 50 % cultivation of arecanut plantation in that plot of land. In the past, the Village Dorbar made it compulsory for every male member of the village of 18 years and above to volunteer and plant arecanut trees and any one who fails to do so were punished with a fine equal to a day's wage of that time.

In the past the sale from this area was only around Rs.20, 000 to 25,000/- annually as there are only about 950 to 1000 arecanut trees. Moreover some of these trees were not fruitful due to shortage of fund for maintenance and planting more trees. Now through NREGS, maintenance, fencing and more plantations has been done by the village and the village is now expected to generate more income than before.

*If you think you are beaten, you are.
If you think you dare not, you don't.
If you'd like to win but think you can't,
It's almost certain you won't.
Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man,
But sooner or later, the man who wins
Is the man who thinks he can.*

Orchids in Meghalaya

Orchids are highly valued for their fantastic range of variation and long lasting flowers. Of 17,000 species of orchids in the world, about 1,250 occur in India, of which nearly 300 are to be found in Meghalaya. They form a very noticeable element of the vegetation of the State and these hills have been the classical collection centres of many celebrated botanists and horticultural plant-collectors. They are, as a result, becoming scarce and some of the ornamental species are nearing extinction. The orchids of Meghalaya have distributions extending upto Sikkim, Bhutan, Nepal, China on one hand and Burma, Malaya, Thailand on the other. Few species are only confined to Meghalaya.

In Cherrapunjee, the two forests - Mawsmat and Mawmluh contain the highest number of orchid species in the whole region. Sohrarim is another forest on the way to Cherrapunjee which is paradise of Botanists. Conservation of orchids is now a matter of universal concern. There is urgent need to maintain orchid sanctuaries and special efforts must be made to protect the 'Sacred forests' of Meghalaya, hitherto preserved by religious sanction alone. 'Orchid banks' may be created in orchidaria or in forest nurseries by bringing endangered species from their natural habitat and displaying them for the public.
